When the King and Queen arrived at Fredericton, the capital of New Brunswick, they were met by Hon. Murray MacLaren, Lieutenant-Governor of the Maritime province, who is shown here pointing out some of the places of interest to Queen Elizabeth.

HALIFAX, June 15—To all the world His Majesty the King today held up for an example, the Dominion of Canada and her neighbor, the United States, "whose peoples are wholly dedicated to the pursuit of peace, a pattern to all men of how civilized nations should live together."

It was not a new thought, that His Majesty laid down at the luncheon given to the King and Queen at the Nova Scotia hotel today, but it rang with new meaning, for the King has been acclaimed by all the Dominion, from coast to coast, as the man in whom they have a confidence they never gave to man before.

The King, too, comes to Nova Scotia from an acclaim in the United States, where his reception has been such that the world must now know that Canada's good neighbor is at one with her in admiration and respect for the King.

"It is good to know that such a 'regin exists,' said the King, 'for what man can do once he can do again.' By God's grace may we all be able to do what the world will follow."

No flamboyant speech, this, no challenge to the world that Britain rules the waves, that the British Empire and the United States could by their might dominate the world. "By God's grace," said the King, "the example which all the world will follow."

All the world listened to His Majesty's words. He spoke not only to the people of Halifax, of Nova Scotia, of Canada, the Dominion and the Empire, but all who listened.

This being His Majesty's first public utterance at the close of his Canadian and American tour, all the world listened to his words, and it was here where the banquet was held, that the King and Queen, with the King's personal secretary, Mr. Duffell, and the Queen's personal secretary, Mrs. Duffell, were seen.

The Royal train that had been the official residence for most of the first trip over made by a reigning British sovereign to America, pulled into the gaily-decorated station, not far from the spot where hundreds of trains unloaded Canadian soldiers bound for overseas during the war.

Their Majesties, able to hear the real reaction from the people, had hidden from view by the station walls, were smiling as they alighted from the train at 11:30 a.m. E.T. to be welcomed officially by Premier Angus MacDonald and Lord Tweedmouth.

UPHOLDING OF
PRICE-FIXING
ACT EXPLAINED

Reasons for Appeal Court's Action Is Given In Statement

VANCOUVER, June 15.—The British Columbia court of appeal's unanimous judgment June 9 upholding the power of the provincial legislature to fix basic prices for gasoline is explained in detail in a statement handed down today by Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan.

The appeal court allowed an appeal of Attorney-General G. S. Winter from a judgment of Mr. Justice A. M. Manson, who found the price-fixing powers of the coal and petroleum product control board act ultra vires. Mr. Manson's judgment was handed down last October when seven oil companies and two gasoline dealers in Vancouver instituted legal action against an order reducing gasoline prices in the province from three to six cents per gallon.

POWER TO REGULATE
Mr. Justice Sloan expressed the opinion that "the legislation in question is a regulation of the power to regulate for legitimate purposes."

LONDON, June 15.—Prime Minister Chamberlain today indicated the government may seek joint action by Great Britain, France and the United States if Japan used the Tientsin incident for more far-reaching demands against foreign interests in China.

SHANGHAI, June 15.—Three Japanese warships have isolated Kiangsu from the mainland, halting passenger traffic and preventing the landing of vegetables and other supplies, foreign residents of Amoy reported today.

A Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying the purpose of the blockade was to "bring the municipal council to its senses" with respect to Japanese demands, including one which would give Japanese control of the Kiangsu international station affairs.

TIENTSIN, June 15.—Japanese officers tightening their blockade on Tientsin's British and French concessions served notice today they would keep those areas isolated until Great Britain yielded to new and wider demands.

Apparently given a free hand by Tokyo in this Far Eastern crisis, the officers rejected British mediation attempts, imposed five new conditions for amicable settlement, and declared in a statement:

"We will not accept any present measures until the British reverse their policy and afford us complete co-operation."

The dispute, which started with refusal of British authorities to hand over to Japanese four Chinese accused of terrorism, appeared more firmly established when the Japanese army started its blockade early yesterday.

The 120,000 population of the British and French concessions, including 5,000 British and other civilians, was virtually cut off from food and all other supplies. Prices soared, and the Japanese army started its blockade early yesterday.

A total of 2,500 British and French troops were on duty in the concessions. Japan has a large army of occupation in this North China area. Some 10,000 Japanese troops were in the first months of the Chinese-Japanese war that started July 7, 1937.

Survivors Tell Epic Story of Rescue In Lesser Slave Tragedy

By E. S. STANLEY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
FAUST, Alta., June 15—How four men, three of whom afterwards lost their lives in the icy waters of Lesser Slave Lake, stood on the deck of their blazing gas boat at midnight on Tuesday, prayed quietly, shook hands all around and, although they couldn't swim, leaped overboard to take a chance on finding wreckage that would keep them afloat, was told this morning by George Davies, only man of the four picked up. The drowned are Louis Nourse of Faust, Malcolm Sinclair of High Prairie, and Claude Girouard of Codasa.

Warming himself in the sun outside the office shack at McKee's sawmill camp, Davies told the story of an epic struggle for life when the gas-boat "Sheila M." tender to a tug towing a boom of logs, and with extra men aboard, suddenly broke into flames which reached the gasoline supply and turned the boat into a raging inferno before the men could act.

Nearly, as Davies, still shivering from the chilly waters, told of the grim battle against the flames and then against the numbing waters of Lesser Slave lake, the brothers Paul and Alfred Laporte, two more of the survivors, added their comments. All three were visibly shaken by their experience.

"I was sent with the boat from the camp at Point Two to pick up the extra men who had been helping gather logs into the lake, and to bring them back to camp," said Davies. "The men had just finished their work, and it was about midnight when we left the towing tug, called 'The Allegator,' and started for the camp."

ENGINE BACKFIRE
"Everything went well for a time and then suddenly the engine backfired. Instantly the whole boat was ablaze, the backfire coming the gas and setting fire to the gas and oil which was floating on the water in the bottom of the boat. Some of the men were already asleep on the pier house and on deck forward and they were immediately separated from the rest of us by the flames. I yelled 'Fire, throw me your blankets in a can smother it.'" who had joined the Royal train at Toronto, 48 miles outside of the city. The Governor General had met of course to the Royal train which arrived two days ago at the Hotel Empress of Britain, which will serve their Majesties home. The general, plain white uniform, as he left through the station, and the Lord Tweedsmuir, just back from a cruise, followed him to greet their Majesties at Halifax. But he was not on hand at the train when the royal train arrived at the city. He was a 10-minute stop, and he accompanied the Royal visitors to Halifax.

Thunderous cheering broke out immediately the guns began booming the royal salute to signal the royal arrival. The King wore his admiral's uniform, as he had through the station, and the Queen, a blue ensemble, the Viscountess accompanied with her husband.

DIAMOND MAPLE LEAF

She also wore the blue leaf-off-the-face hat that she wore in Vancouver. It was trimmed with white and white veiling. She wore her favored diamond maple leaf pin and two strands of pearls. Her feet were white pumps.

While the King and Queen were to inspect the guard of honor, the Queen's chair was taken by Lieutenant Governor Robert Brown.

Meanwhile, the entire train crew was lined up in front of the form and the Majesties received. Virtually every crew member, and the Queen, seemed to talk briefly with a porter.

WEATHER PERFECT

The Royal procession moved slowly along the crowded streets. The King and Queen smiling and waving to the people who lined the sidewalks of the sunlit streets. The weather was perfect, and the crowd standing well back.

PERSONAL TRIBUTE

First personal tribute to the Queen came from the Mayor's wife who described Her Majesty as "just what I need at this time."

While crowds waited anxiously outside, the Royal visitors stood in a hall in the province building, the old school council chamber where the TORONTO, June 15—Increased participation by the Dominion government in the preventive medicine program was tonight by Dr. R. P. Woodhouse, health minister, in his presidential address to the Canadian Public Health Association.

STUDY MILK POISONING

Dr. Woodhouse reported on continuing research into milk poisoning, a problem which has been a major concern of the health division of the department. He said an interesting group of people, who are now being followed, had started complete delivery among grain farmers and elevator workers, apparently attributable to soil contamination.

STUDY MILK POISONING

A study of milk poisoning along the Atlantic coast will be extended in the province survey in Atlantic Canada. The survey has revealed an earlier opinion that faulty tests in the province were responsible for the outbreak of milk poisoning was found to increase.

Dr. Woodhouse said the recently re-established child and maternal health division was taking an active interest in the problem of milk poisoning. The surveying fact, already the detailed case records, already the maternal death rate has shown a decline in the province, 50 per cent as a result of doctors checking the milk.

What To Do

Will you kindly tell me the reason why the hostesses always go on last to dinner and the host goes first? Thank you. MRS. C. W. C.

Answer: The hostess goes last, walking with the most important of her men guests, for the very same reason that she would stand aside to let any woman guests pass into any room ahead of her. This gives her an opportunity to watch that all goes well. Suppose any small mishap occurred, that through some mistake the guests had been to go in while one was still missing, the hostess is still at hand to set things straight. The host goes first with the chief woman guest because she is given the place of honor and he conducts her to it. The hostess should always be on the lookout for the comfort of her guests and just as she stands aside to let women guests precede her in the dining room she pauses at the dining-room door after dinner to let the ladies leave ahead of her.

MOST OF CANADA IS NOT NORTH OF THE UNITED STATES

Strangely enough, the majority of the population of Canada live south of the United States. The inhabitants of Windsor, Ontario, look northward to see Detroit and the City of Warroad, Minn., is farther north than Montreal, Ottawa, or Toronto, Canada, or the 46-degree latitude line. Over half of the Canadian live South of the line, and as to be south of the point in the United States.

FLATTERING TO TANNED SKINS

The girl who achieves a smooth golden tan this summer finds exceedingly flattering. Or smooth with a combination of brilliant color. A smart Fifth Avenue dress emphasizes a tailored sport dress of dark white rayon with silk scarf and pocket kerchief or rich Hindu stripes. Draped turban, sandals and bag may be had to match the scarf belt. The dress also comes in navy, charcoal and gray.

What To Do

By ALICIA HART

The mother who knows that a summer vacation—even a short one—can put the sparkle back in her eyes, clarify her skin, give her spirits a lift and her figure a surprise, strenuous vacation.

Yes, she knows that her vacation can do all this—and more, too. But she knows just as well that it won't unless she lays down a few vacation rules for herself, and sticks to them.

One of her rules, for instance, will be something about not hurrying to bed at both ends. She will resolve to get nine hours sleep out of every twenty-four and that will be that. This does not mean that she'll go to bed early when there's fun to be had, but simply that if she goes to bed very late, she'll sleep late next morning.

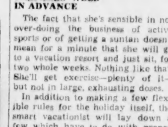

She has had a pretty satisfactory vacation last summer, she'll say, for vacation spots in a sane, sensible fashion. She'll swim a short distance during the first three or four days, play nine holes of golf instead of eighteen and one set of tennis rather than three. In other words, she'll make a point of not getting the first four or five days of her vacation used up by overdoing it.

She'll be equally sane about the business of getting a fine coat of tan. You won't expect to get a tan in the middle of the day when the sun is hottest or taking the morning or late afternoon sun. The sun was twenty minutes at the beach for the first four or five days. She'll use a sunburn preventive against discretion. As a result, she'll get back to town with a lovely sunburn instead of a blistered back and a peeling nose.

For example, if her employer expects her to do in advance two weeks of work to be used while she's away, she will do it. But she'll take that working load to do at odd moments spots a vacation.

She'll get all of the laundry done before leaving. Instead of having to shop a bit once she gets there, she'll write necessary letters before, not during, her holiday. And she won't spend vacation days reading anything except what she really wants to read. She'll worry later about improving her job. Her health, her looks and her income will be first consideration during the entire time.

EARNER PRIZES TO TIGERS IN BIG TRADE

Great Outfielder Is Principal in Deal

CLEVELAND, June 15.—Baseball's David Harman sent Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder who has a lifetime big league batting average of .322, to Detroit Tigers Wednesday for Southpaw Henry Eisenstat and a wad of greenbacks—and there in a couple of lesser deals for good measure.

Immediately there was speculation as to whether the Indians would beat the major league trading deadline of midnight today and sell Eisenstat to St. Louis Browns for Second Baseman Don Heffner, long coveted by the Tribe.

The Browns optioned Outfielder Rupert Thompson yesterday to Newark of the International League. He had said he had no connection with St. Louis purchase Monday of Joe Gallagher, Newark's hard-hitting outfielder.

In another deal Louisville Colonels of the American Association purchased Laver Parnell, veteran right-hand pitcher from Philadelphia Athletics.

I had to leave Cleveland, I would rather go to Detroit than any other club," said Averill, a left-handed batter, has been a member of all five American League ballclubs, and came to Cleveland in 1928 from San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League at a reported $80,000.

Cincinnati Buys Relief Pitcher

CINCINNATI, June 15.—General Manager Warren C. Giles of Cincinnati Reds announced last night the purchase of Art Jacoby, left-handed relief pitcher, from Buffalo of the International League. In addition to cash, the Reds sent Buffalo Earl Cook, who has been in camp with Columbus of the American Association.

King Most Interested In Meeting Men Who Fought in Great War

By A. E. FULFORD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, June 15.—If you could ask the King what he liked most in Canada—and no one can because he never is interviewed—the probability would tell you he was most interested in meeting the men who fought during the war for his father.

During the long tour which ended today, he gave unmistakable evidence of this. Newspapermen who have accompanied the King and Queen have been astonished at some of the almost off-hand ways in which the King has greeted even provincial dignitaries and how he moved along to chat and shake hands with bereft veterans who interested him more than the automobiles dressed in morning clothes. And the King has been given need to place to the Queen in his interest in children.

Troubled Times Ahead

Minister

BERLIN, June 15.—Propaganda Minister Goebbels told a gathering of German students last night the world situation is "very difficult and Germany faces difficult times."

"If in the 17th century there had been a man in Germany capable of uniting the country we would be leading the world, not England," Goebbels said.

"Now we have to create up in a couple of decades on what we failed to do in a couple of centuries."

"There are some folks who ask what we would have done if we had come last September or of Chamberlain had not come to Munich," he remarked.

"It is merely necessary to reply that he did come. He did not come for him. There was no other way for him. We had him driven into a trap and he came in to borrow a phrase from chess, he was out of the game."

Goebbels drew a storm of applause from 15,000 students assembled in the Reichstag hall. He asserted that Germany was serving notice on the world that she was not to be her usual "have not" nation as unchangeable.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, June 15.—Disputing reports of a German-Hungarian agreement for dividing what remains of this little, nominally independent country circulated today from the halls of government to the smallest peasant village.

Even the most optimistic Slovak nationalists were alarmed by rumors of Chancellor Hitler's perspective view to Budapest—officially denied but still believed in many quarters to be arranged for early July by a sweeping economic decision since March, with features closing down and the currency rapidly being in its own hands. German troop movements on the Slovak-Polish border.

Official quarters in Berlin denied reports of German negotiations with Hungary for dismemberment of Slovakia and that there were any movement of German troops. Foreign sources in Berlin, however, expressed the belief that German troops would take over the little state "by force of circumstances."

RESIDENTS OF TRURO CHEER ROYAL COUPLE

King and Queen Make Unscheduled Appearance
At Truro, N.S.

TRURO, N.S., June 15.—King George and Queen Elizabeth returned to the cheers of their Truro county subjects today by making an unscheduled appearance at the station platform of this fishing town, second stop on their Canadian itinerary.

Three thousand delighted onlookers gave their Majesties a warm greeting for 15 minutes before the King and Queen moved on to the next stop at 9:18 a.m. E.D.T. for Halifax, where the royal couple embarked on a tour to visit the royal yacht and home.

STEEPED TO PLATFORM
The train had stopped here for several minutes, but for the night on a siding a few miles east of here, and residents had not been certain they would see the King and Queen until the royal couple stepped out onto the wet platform of their speeding train.

For the brief appearance, the King wore a light blue suit, the Queen wore a light blue dress. The Queen was dressed in a powder blue suit with white lace and the royal train for the night for Newfoundland and home.

SMILED AND WAVED
Both smiled and waved as they came into the open 10 minutes after the train had stopped. The station, where virtually Truro's whole population was gathered, with thousands more from the surrounding countryside.

The Queen appeared fresh and eager, but Her Majesty looked somewhat drawn as a result of rain, and the weather, through the three maritime provinces in last weather.

On the way to the station was Lord Tweedmouth, who had returned to the station from Quebec on the liner Empress of Britain. The Governor-General, Lord Tweedmouth, was the 60-mile run into Halifax.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE
In contrast with the rainy weather that greeted them yesterday, a bright sun broke out this morning, and the temperature rose to a high 60 at 60 degrees.

Added to the crowd was a group of 2,000 school children, who had been marshalled into place two days before the royal visit into town. They sang "O Canada" and "God Save the King" as the glimmering train moved away.
